Seminar - Tuesday 10 February

Dear Colleagues, Students, and Partners,

We are just a few days away from our upcoming research seminar, "Activating Article 2 TEU in the Union's Values Crisis," and we are delighted to share an exciting update to our panel of experts.

Joining our discussion, we are pleased to welcome Dr. Yann Lorans (Re:constitution, NOVA School of Law), who will act as a discussant online.

He joins our keynote speaker, Dr. Luke Dimitrios Spieker (Humboldt University), and Professor Cecilia Rizcallah (UCLouvain/ULB/College of Europe) for what promises to be a rigorous debate on the future of EU constitutional law.

The Discussion

In an era defined by "narratives of crisis," this seminar will explore how the European Union's core values can become actionable legal tools for individuals and courts.

Dr. Spieker will specifically address:

- Whether Article 2 TEU values can serve as a yardstick for judicial review.
- How individuals might invoke these values before national and EU courts to safeguard democratic principles.
